NO COTTON COMPROMISE.

The Lockout of 130,000 Men in Manchester, Eng., Continues.

Manchester, Oct. 4.—The Federation of Master Cotton Spinners yesterday refused to entertain the revised terms of a compromise proposition suggested by George Ranken Askwith, comptroller general of the commercial, labor and statistical department of the board of trade, and accepted by the operatives. Accordingly the lockout of 130,000 men continues. Much disappointment is felt, as the indications Sunday night were that Mr. Askwith had found a way out of the unfortunate situation.

CHINA TAKES SECOND STEP

People Learning Representative Government

NEW SENATE ASSEMBLES

To Labor for Constitutional Progress. Members of the Press Are Barred From the First Day's Meeting.

Pekin, Oct. 4.—China took another forward step yesterday, when at noon the newly-constituted imperial Senate was opened by the regent, Prince Chun. There was little or no ceremony to mark the historic event. In a brief address Prince Chun stated that the wish of the people was for a parliamentary government, and he commended the senator to labor for this consummation. A parliamentary building of ample dimensions will be constructed, but pending its completion the sessions of the Senate will be held in the rather narrow quarters of the law college. The lack of room was given as the reason for the exclusion of representatives of the press from yesterday's proceedings. The same rule was applied to other outsiders, not even the members of the foreign diplomatic corps being invited to be present. The imperial Senate constitutes the second stage in the development of a popular representative government. The first was the inauguration a year ago of the provincial assemblies. The crowning event will be the establishment of a general parliament, which is promised for 1915.

The imperial Senate is expected to demonstrate the fitness of the Chinese to help rule themselves, and so prepare the way for a genuinely representative government. Certain classes, especially the merchants, are impatient for the fulfillment of the plans of the throne, and last June a delegation from the provincial assemblies came to Peking and demanding the immediate convocation of a national parliament. The memorial was rejected, and its authors were told that a constitutional government proper would come only at the end of the nine-year period of preparation fixed by the late dowager empress. Affairs will move slowly and the make-up of the Senate is a sufficient guarantee that the throne will keep a firm hand on the body and directly influence its actions. The radical reform element will be held in restraint. Of the 200 members, 100 were appointed by the throne, while the others though chosen by the provincial assemblies, were not admitted until their selection had been approved by the viceroys of their province. Those named by the throne include imperial Manchian princes and nobles, distinguished scholars, representatives of the official class and of the high taxpayers.

HEINZE IN BOSTON.

He Appears As a Witness in a Banking Case.

Boston, Oct. 4.—A banking episode in New York and this city in August, 1909, when certain collateral for loans negotiated through Boston and New York brokers was claimed to have been sold without authority, was recalled by the appearance of F. Augustus Heinze, the Montana copper magnate, before a supreme court master, in his suit against A. D. F. Adams and other brokers of this city.

The master in the case is F. Rockwood Hall, a Boston attorney, who has been hearing the evidence for more than a year. It has already been shown that Heinze began borrowing money from Adams and others in 1905, giving as collateral shares in mining companies until the amount reached between $300,000 and $400,000. In August, 1909, Heinze made the claim that his collateral had been sold without authority and began suit. Before coming to Boston to testify, Heinze, through his attorneys, asked the supreme court to protect him from any other legal proceedings that might be instituted while in this state. Heinze was the first witness at yesterday's proceedings, but the hearing was private.
